LOCKWOOD ASSAILS THEM

Samuel Untermyer before the Lock wood committee at City Hall yester of injunction proceedings already begun in Brooklyn by independent hodcarriers, over whom employers and bricklayers are fighting.

Mr. Untermyer proposed that ilities be suspended during the life of the ironclad contract the Independent Bricklayers' Helpers and Buildwith the Mason Builders. This has until the end of the year to run.

The Lockwood committee counsel mended as terms of the truce:

Lockout rescinded.

All bricklayers remain at work.

"Looking out for our own interest," smiled Mr. Norman.

Frank E. Conover was equally loath to accept the truce because of what he regarded the irresponsibility of the bricklayers. He said he would not feel safe in suspending the lockout until he actually saw them back on the job.

"As my friend deceived me, shamed be he," he quoted. "If he deceive me again, shamed be I."

"This high and enighty stand," said Mr. Untermyer, springing up, "will not get us anywhere."

Frayne Assails $6 Rate.

An illegal conspiracy was Mr. Untermyer's description of the clause in the contract of the Independent whereby it was pledged to the Mason Builders not to affiliate with the A. F. of L.

Mr. Untermyer called the desire of the bricklayers to end the controversy "commendable," but on adjournment called to Mr. Conover:

Automobile at $27.50 In Police Auction Sale

LEVEN automobiles were sold at prices as low as $27.50 and $30 yesterday at the semi-annual auction of un-claimed property at Police Headquarters. Most of the cars were knocked down to bidders at sums under $100. The highest price reeived was $342.50.

The complete list of articles offered sounded like a running monologue of a department-store monologue of a department store elevator operator: "Ladies under-wear, silk stockings, vacuum cleaners, suit cases, baby car-riages, razors, furs, surgical instruments, watches, groceries, hardware, eyeglasses," &c.

A newlywed couple rolled off a baby carriage which they got for 25 cents. A man bought four fliv-vers and as many sets of extra tires for $149. The total receipts of the auction amounted to $2,548. This money will go into the police pension fund.
